Cambusbarron Parish Church, Bruce Memorial – ‘Connected Life’ Programme

The programme was set up around 2011/12 after a full Strategic Review by the church. It led to the development of the ‘Living the Connected Life’ Strategy and the subsequent ‘Go For It’ Funding Initiative. Youth and Family work was already underway in partnership with the Haldane Trust. In 2012/13, following the arrival of a new minister who was committed to the Strategy and Vision of ‘Connected Life’, a matched funding research grant from the ‘Go For It’ Fund led to the following findings:

- Cambusbarron, around 3,300 population, although on the edge of Stirling City, still has a village ‘feel’ and identity and should be regarded as a village community
- The village is off the main routes and many of those coming to the village have no identity with it and there was need to connect the newcomers to the local community and its history in order to increase their sense of wellbeing that it is ‘a great place to live’.
- The Church sits in the heart of the village. It has a membership of around 300 with a regular Sunday Service congregation of 80 to 100. The age profile of those attending was identified as a concern, with around 70% retired, 30% working age including 4 or 5 families. Action was needed to engage with our community and reduce the age profile – hence the ‘Connected Life’ Strategy
- It has several recent housing developments and is rapidly becoming a favoured commuter-belt area for Edinburgh and Glasgow. This means there are many young families with no wider family support in the area. There was a need for an Out of School Club. Funding for a ‘proof of concept’ was sought from ‘Go For It’ and the grant enabled the establishing of a thriving Cambusbarron Community Partnership Out of School Club with over 60 registered children and this Club rents our Hall for the purpose.
- The theme of ‘living a connected life’ was identified as a phrase that had resonance with the language of the technology age and would be a vehicle for bringing people together using technology and through engaging in activities that were needed to enrich the experience of living in the village.
- As a church we believe that being ‘connected with God’ as well as with each other and the activities in the village, greatly enriches the lives of individuals and families within the village and we seek to commend this as part of Cambusbarron being ‘a great place to live’
- There was a need for children and family work and so the Youth Worker we had from Haldane Trust was re-employed fulltime by the Church to deliver Family and Community Work through the Church matching the Go For It Funding.
- The Church has been delivering the following elements of its Connected Life Strategy through several groups: Worship Group, Families and Children’s Work Team, Pastoral Group, Church and Community Group, Communications Group, Wellbeing Group
